I am intrigued by Mig-15's look and the fact that it was technological step forward towards the jet age...but with air to air missiles not yet incorporated. I did not notice any major bugs on modul, however I never managed to figure out how to use radio to communicate with AWAST and ATCs even after watching videos on Youtube and checking Flight manual over and over.

The plane's flight characteristics makes it pleasant to fly. It is stable plane what makes it suitable for formation flying and ground attacks with cannons. I never managed to master bombing which is supposed to be executed with intuition rather than precise aiming. Landings require some practice. Engine is slow responding which forces you to tune your engine management skills for dogfight.

There is one thing what always concerned me. It has nothing to do with DCS itself, but with actual Mig 15's design. The aiming device in the cockpit is so big that it blocks the pilot's vision. During positive G turns in dogfight gyroscopics aiming pipe disappears behind the body of the aiming device just as the plane you chase, thereafter you only rely on guess or intuition to aim. I never mastered it and so never became good in dogfights with this plane.

Conclusion: The module is beautiful, intriguing and possesses the magic, but dogfights are challenging above the average.. I love the game so much I bought the music just to support the creator some more. More coins for you so you can make another game for me to buy.. It's rare for me to recommend a Kemco game. ... Like very rare. However, if there was a Kemco game that I would recommend anyone get, it would be this game. There is a feel of it that is pretty cool. Maybe it's because going 'retro fantasy game' lowers the expectations.

However, as a video game, it is very enjoyable and it is definitely worth having if you enjoy RPGs. It's definitely classic in the old Dragon Quest format feel.. I am not a fan of platforming games and this one is no exception but I can see some good things in this game. The gameplay is good, the art style fits the game and story and the music is awesome.

It may be a good game to play for some time.. This game is so much fun. always has some this new for the user such as, new dungeons, skins, and items! 10/10

Pretty good mystery/horror game. Consist of two main routes, each of them containing a part of the story necessary to understand what's going on. I was expecting some grand finale, aka true ending 3rd route but sadly it doesnt have that. Not that it matters too much, the game is perfectly fine and enjoyable as is.. I wasn't really expecting much since it was a cheap game but hey I played free otome games and they were awesome, and I was really disappointed with this one.

The story was short and too simple, and you don't get hints on how your answers affect the relationship with the characters, and the answer options are repetitive. Even if you end up with different characters, THE OPTIONS THAT LEADS TO THE ENDING REMAINS THE SAME FOR BOTH. There's no difference!! Even the lines are same; modified abit according to characters.

There was this one annoying cut scene where all the characters went clubbing in the club and it was a video of real life people in the club, found it annoying that they: 1. didn't put a skip button, i had to endure the whole scene. 2. They made it clear in the beginning to make the game korean as possible, but the video was full of white people, even one of the characters who were supposedly dj-ing turned white here lol. It looks lazy AF to me.

I wouldn't recommend this game, if you're interested in alot of endings because to me, there seems to be only two : accept the character then move or leave.. This is actually a really neat game. It's a combination of tetris and bejeweled with real-time block management thrown in. I randomly installed this out of my phat library, and was not disappoint. The challenges are fun and can be difficult - but not so difficult that they're impossible. If you're looking for a casual game to kill time with, I'd totally reccommend this game... I mean, come on guys, there's inspirational flute music.. Fun random little game. Couple of tricky platform jumps. Some jump puzzles. Got it on discount. Very short game but worth the hour I spent playing it.. <===TO BE CONTINUED. Good and different skins.. Finally a space RPG with Capital ships!

Graphics are great, sounds are good and gameplay is excellent! The ship models are absolutely amazing too!

Looking forward to pumping some hours into this.. Pointless game
